Generator installation & moto gates

GOSHEN NDEVE GENERAL CONSTRUCTION GENERATOR INSTALLATION

A generator installation is typically in cases where backup power is required because your power utility is unable to supply power to your mains. Generators are used to supply power in areas where there is no electrical power to mains. Generators are also used to supply power in areas where there is no electrical supply and they play a significant role in South Africa due to our vulnerable power grid and limited supply

Backup generators are crucial for the commercial and industrial sector who would suffer great losses if their businesses or plants stopped running when there was no power supply. We at Goshen Ndeve General Construction are professional installers that will feed power to your home or business. Many property owners take the law into their own hands and simply plug the generator into one of the wall power outlets. Its regarded as an illegal and not recommended as it can damage your properties electrical circuits and could also cause an electrical fire.

Keeping roads visible day and night, rain and shine. The risk for traffic accidents is three times likely in foggy, wet, rainy, dark conditions.

Road markings loses their brightness as surface water negates their reflectivity, marking already difficult driving all the more challenging.

Goshen Ndeve General Construction

road marking uses marking material brightens even in rainy and dark conditions. We use all-weather marking superior reflective paint.

The unique elements defy the normal effects of water and continue to provide high visibility for drivers even on dark and wet roads.

Traditional "exposed lens: marking systems have reflective beads on the top of the marking. Many performs fine in dry weather, but when it gets wet, the water interferes with the optics causing headlight illumination to scatter rather than retro-reflect. The result is these road markings virtually disappear until the water drains or evaporates. Unlike the weather system marking paint we use reflect even in a downpour.

BUSH CLEARING: It prepares the site for the construction activities which follow and makes the work easier and safer. Clearing consists of the removal of: - bush and scrub; - trees, stumps and fences; - grass and other vegetation; - boulders. The removal of trees and boulders can be very time-consuming and realignment of the road should be considered before starting major clearing work. Some activities, i.e. tree felling and removal of big boulders require experienced workers and safety precautions.

It is important that the bushes are promptly removed from the cleared area as they will hinder the subsequent projects. Also thorns might injure workers and poisonous reptiles can kill someone. Thorn bushes are difficult to handle for the clearing gang but a long stalk with a twig used as a hook is a most helpful implement. The brush is a heavier tool which is extremely useful for the cutting of inaccessible dense bush. Alternatively this type of tractor is required. Long grass should be cut close to the ground and removed outside the clearing area. If this is done systematically the danger of snakes and poisonous animals will also be considerably reduced.

TREE AND STUMP REMOVAL A dry road is stronger than a wet road! On the other hand, trees can protect the exposed faces of cuts against erosion. Therefore, before cutting down trees outside the roadway, the advantages and disadvantages have to be considered. Normally trees outside the roadway can be left (unless a lot of roots have been exposed and there is danger of the tree falling when high winds are blowing) until the road has been built and other erosion protection (turfs, grass) has been made effective. With small-sized trees, a good way of removing both the tree and its stump is to pull down the whole tree. The roots or stumps left in the ground will eventually rot away and leave holes which can undermine the strength of the road.
